I previously used this language and translation app, but my friends told me about iTranslate, which is made by Apple and available only on the Apple Store. Now I prefer it because it has more languages and can be used offline or without mobile data/WiFi connections. In contrast, Google Translate requires mobile data/WiFi to function. Although iTranslate lacks a feature that allows translating text from photos, this feature in Google Translate seems amazing. If they could add more languages, I might use Google Translate again; however, if some countries block Google due to restrictions, I would still prefer iTranslate. My pen pal's language is available on iTranslate but not Google Translate. I appreciate the work of other apps by Google, especially Google Lens. Now that I have found this alternative, be ever so grateful because that would mean when my pen pal sends me a letter I could use camera translate option to translate the letter I get given, and if you do add more languages he will be able to Translate mine.Thanks much.Noah Ward Hello google translate ok I love love love your app but there is one issue you see my family speak Kurdish (sorani) and whenever my relatives can read something in English and dont understand it they translate it to Kurdish you might be thinking what is your problem? My problem is that you cant scan English to Kurdish you can only type it and I cant type the Kurdish language and that is a big issue for me because sometimes I want to translate my Kurdish books to English so I can understand it but I cant because you cant scan it please make a update Google translate I love your app please make it better (please add all the other languages that you cant scan to have the access to scan and not just Kurdish)To /Google Translate Greeting of peace and prosperity Above all, we would like to extend our sincere greetings for the Google Translate Community, we would like to request our language to be in your site and app,, as you see Kurdish-Sorani does not exist in the list of Google Translate, the language is spoken in Northern Iraq Kurdistan Region officially , and at the same time the language is spoken in Iran, More than 45 million Kurds need the language in the world, and it is spoken and official in northern Iraq /Kurdistan Region, government uses the language in all the departments of governmental offices , the language is used in schools and directorates in Kurdistan Region , so please accept our request , it is very important to students and people, even for government and merchants, teachers, students, and so on . We need Kurdish Sorani on Google translate so that we get rid of having struggles inaccurate translation from other languages. Thank you, best regards.The developer, Google, indicated that the apps privacy practices may include handling of data as described below. For more information, see the developers privacy policy.
