Either you speak and listen to self-correct, or you use the Speak English Pronunciation app.While most of the features are similar to the English Pronunciation app, there is a key difference. It allows you to record your voice so you can hear the original pronunciation and how it is pronounced. It works well and allows you to practice even without a tutor. Your pronunciation will receive a star rating (1-5). There is no test mode available, but Speak English Pronunciation has diagrams with lip and tongue positions to guide you. Again, there is no way to type specific words to hear their pronunciation.Speak English Pronunciation is free to download with ads and offline jobs.Download Speak English Pronunciation3. English Pronunciation: OfflineThe two English pronunciation apps mentioned above do not allow students to enter specific words for the application to be pronounced. This is where English pronunciation: The offline app enters the image. I would like the app developers to be more creative with the app's names.The app is a lite version that measures less than 3MB and allows you to put words, phrases and even whole sentences into the box. Tap the speaker button to hear how the words are pronounced. You can hear the repeated words by tapping the speaker button, and it takes just a second to respond. Only two other options are available. Setting Speech Rate will allow you to control the volume while Set Pitch will allow you to control the vocal tone making it deeper or lighter. Play with it a couple of times to figure out how they work.This ad-supported app is free to use and works offline which is impressive considering its small app size.Download English Pronunciation Offline You will need to sign up with Utter to start using it. app user is more refined and has a professional look. You will start with the Tenses course where an AI powered robot will welcome you. He will then guide you through an interactive chat where you need to need to answers from the given options. There are different courses for different scenarios such as when talking to friends about travel, office, work or presentation. There are three levels Beginner for daily tasks such as time to tell, mediate for a casual discussion with friends, and Advanced for office and work space. After covering the bases, the real test begins with the pronunciation where you have to record your voice to answer the real questions of life. Utter's goal is to help you prepare for any situation. The first two lessons are free at every level. You will have to pay $2.49 with an in-app purchase. Utter is an engaging app that teaches not only how to speak, but also what to say in particular situations. Download Utter5. Elsa Elsa has a lucid voice recognition software that will help you improve your pronunciation. I find the memo Elsa's planning for you useful. The UI is beautiful and functional with topics ranging from customer service to taxi driver. Each subject has many lessons. When you start a lesson, Elsa will guide you vocally and ask you to repeat some contextual words and phrases. You will receive an immediate feedback on your pronunciation and, depending on your performance, you will be asked to repeat or continue with the lesson. Elsa will suggest language and lip movements if you're struggling to get some right words. You can also listen to your pronunciation by hitting the ear button. Elsa claims to have a vocabulary of words and phrases from every day around 2000 that should be enough for you to go on and start learning on your own.
