Bethesda family practice

This service is offered to women aged 25-64 years by practice nurses at Bethesda Medical Centre on specific days. Child immunisations are available by post, while Covid Vaccinations are currently not offered here but may be reintroduced in the future. Patients can get information about COVID-19 vaccinations and make bookings by dialing 119 from a landline or mobile phone. Diabetic screening appointments can be booked with Healthcare Assistants 10 days prior to a consultation with a diabetic practice nurse or GP, available on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Bethesda provides family planning services, including oral contraception and fitting of devices. They also have a Frailty team for elderly patients, offering support and assistance with care needs, mobility equipment, and other services. The practice offers specialist clinics led by Dr Andrew Dowson for headache treatment and a Minor Operations clinic run by Dr Sohail and Alison Keep once a fortnight. Other specialists like Dr Chander Khemani and Mr Ramesh Ganeshalingam hold weekly clinics. Blood samples can be taken by appointment with the Phlebotomist on specific days, and musculoskeletal first contact physiotherapists are now available for all adults registered at Bethesda Medical Centre. Patients with back and joint pain can now book appointments directly via the Reception Team, bypassing GP referrals and hospital visits. This change aims to provide quicker access to physiotherapist services, ultimately helping patients manage their conditions more effectively and recover faster. The practice offers private physiotherapy services with Mr Bodimaluwe Seneviratni, a qualified physiotherapist with expertise in treating orthopaedic, musculoskeletal, and sports injuries. However, this service comes with charges. The practice also provides assessments for asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), along with lung function screening, education, and inhaler techniques training. Patients must be referred by their own doctor to access these services. In contrast, smoking cessation clinics are no longer available at Bethesda Medical Centre, but local stop-smoking services offer free support staffed by expert advisers. These services provide proven methods to help patients quit smoking, along with professional support and affordable treatments like nicotine replacement therapy or bupropion (Zyban). Bethesda Family Practice Center offers convenient and comprehensive medical services in the Cincinnati area, including minor injuries, lab testing, vaccinations, on-site X-rays, and more.
