As Harry Potter fans gear up for Friday's release of Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them, a spin-off film in the magical series, the movie's producers are likely getting ready for another big payday. Warner Bros., the studio that produced all eight films, has sunk hundreds of millions of dollars into each movie—and seen its investment returned by as much as ten times. Considering the fact that studio has ordered a total of five Fantastic Beasts movies, and sunk $225 million into the first installment, it looks like it's continuing to hedge its bets on The Boy Who Lived. And with good reason: The Harry Potter name is as synonymous with wealth as Gringotts Bank. Between seven books, eight movies, two theme parks, and countless Wizarding toys accessories, the brand is worth $25 billion. The original movies—which spanned over 10 years and launched the careers of actors like Daniel Radcliffe and Emma Watson—make up a significant portion of that figure. Here's the budget for each Harry Potter film—and how much it later grossed at the box office, per movie data website The Numbers: Harry Potter and The Sorcerer's Stone Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $974.6 million Profit: $849.6 million Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets Budget: $100 million Worldwide box office earnings: $879 million Profit: $779 million Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban Budget: $130 million Worldwide box office earnings: $796.7 million Profit: $666.7 million Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire Budget: $150 million Worldwide box office earnings: $896.1 million Profit: $746.1 million Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix Budget: $150 million Worldwide box office earnings: $942.9 million Profit: $792.9 million Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince Budget: $250 million Worldwide box office profit: $935 million Profit: $685 million Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part I Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $960.3 million Profit: $835.3 million Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part II Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $1.3 billion Profit: $1.16 billion Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $974.6 million Profit: $849.6 million Budget: $100 million Worldwide box office earnings: $879 million Profit: $779 million Budget: $130 million Worldwide box office earnings: $796.7 million Profit: $666.7 million Budget: $150 million Worldwide box office earnings: $896.1 million Profit: $746.1 million Budget: $150 million Worldwide box office earnings: $942.9 million Profit: $792.9 million Budget: $250 million Worldwide box office profit: $935 million Profit: $685 million Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $960.3 million Profit: $835.3 million Budget: $125 million Worldwide box office earnings: $1.3 billion Profit: $1.16 billion So in total, the Harry Potter movies have netted a cool $6.5 billion to date. Not bad for one wizard who, in the words of Severus Snape, is "mediocre to the last degree." Image: Warner Bros. Calling all witches and wizards! The fan, who goes by the name tomhiddles, decoded the meaning behind the words and was shocked at what it really meant.He said, 'According to Victorian flower language, asphodel is a type of lily meaning "my regrets follow you to the grave" and wormwood means "absence" and also typically symbolises bitter sorrow. If you combined that, Snape's words mean "I bitterly regret Lily's death".'Now we'll have to watch the whole franchise again to see if we can spot anything else!
