For example, you should think about your skin tone, eye color, and hair style and color when you choose a shirt to complement your pants. I took white paper as it matches with tie color- Take the paper and fold it in half to form middle crease point-Now fold the bottom and the top edges to the middle line-Now rotate by 90 degrees and fold it again in half-Reverse the direction so that bottom region is now on top - Fold the right and left corners to middle crease point.-After folding the top edges after opening the 2 small triangles at corners ,, we can see new crease on both right and left side.Using this crease fold the corner inwardsFlap the first layer on to same reverse corner and similarly reverse it.Do it with other layer, as well Using the existing creases close the first layer and then the 2nd layerParticipated in the Makerspace Contest 2017 Khaki pants are neutral in color, which means they can pair well with many different colors. GingerQuip/Pixabay Khaki is one of the most popular types of pants for a reason. You can pair medium khaki pants with shirts of all shades of blue, deep pink, grayish-blue and olive green. The Best Shirt Colors for Dark Khaki Darker khaki, which is nearly brown but not quite, pairs best with specific colors. The Benefits of Khaki You will find many benefits to khakis, one being that they're easy to wear. Medium khaki looks great with deeper colors and jewel tones. MORE FROM REFERENCE.COM - These cute little shirt and pants are made using origami paper and you can simply stick them on gift box and give to your loved ones- This is a fun project to make with your kidsMaterials needed- 15x15 cm sheet of paper for making shirt- 6x6 cmsheet of paper for making tie- 10x20 cm paper for making pantYou can take any color paper of your choice-Take origami paper of any color of your choice. You'll benefit from pairing your darker khaki pants with shirts in shades of green, green-tinted yellow and orange, if you want to pull off a bright look. Make sure to leave a small gap at the top.Flip the paper and fold the top corner edges inwards/ both right and the left top corners)Flip again. Essentially, you can wear khaki pants when you are lounging at home, checking the mail, going on a first date, or heading to work for the day. Other Factors to Consider Keep in mind that there are many other factors to consider when you match your shirt to your khaki pants. Additionally, khaki pants are versatile. The Best Shirt Colors for Light Khaki Light khaki, which is close to a tan-and-white combination, looks great with many colors. You should also know that khakis are considered a type of chino, which is a specific style of pants. Understanding which colors pair well with your pants will help you look as stylish as possible.The History of Khaki Khakis are casual pants made of cotton twill and are generally a light brown color. They're also suitable for a variety of circumstances, from formal events to casual outings with friends. While jeans are often heavy and hot in the warm weather, khaki pants are lightweight and soft, providing a cooler and more comfortable feeling. You can tailor khaki pants to fit your body and your style more comfortably. The pants were originally meant to be part of a military uniform that provided relief from high temperatures while also acting as a type of camouflage. Of course, you first need to understand the best way to style your khakis based on color. Fold the top corner edges on both right and left sides as shown in image-Flip it again and you can see that it is almost ready and looks like shirt- As you see in my images,you will have to fold the tagged regions outward and flatten everything to get finished shirt-First take square 6x6cm sheet of paper and rotate it to 45 degrees.You will see diamond shape.Now fold it in half to form crease in the center and unfold it again.Now after unfolding you can see crease in the middle.Fold one corner in to the centre crease line as shown in my imageSimilarly fold the other half to the centre crease point and flip it over.Now you can see kite shape- Now fold the top point down towards you so that tip is in line with two side points- Next fold the tip point up again as shown in image-Flip the tie and fold side wings to centreFlip the tie and you can see finished tie.Tuck tie under shirt collar using adhesive- For making pant we need 10x20cm rectangular paper size . You might consider all forms of khaki pants as optional for every color of shirt, but the truth is that some shades of khaki may go better with certain colors than others. The Best Shirt Colors for Medium Khaki Medium khaki lies somewhere on the spectrum between light and dark khaki, making it not quite tan and not quite brown. While khaki pants are relatively common today, they got their start in 1848 in what is modern-day Pakistan during British occupation. If your style is more subdued for the event, consider wearing a plum, magenta or brown shirt. You can also wear dark khaki with light gray and off-white shirts for a more neutral, subdued look. If you want to pull off a bright and lively style, pair light khaki pants with yellow-green, hot pink, orange or orange-red. You can wear them with t-shirts, polo shirts or even sports coats. Size of paper should be 15x15 cm. - First fold it in half lengthwise and unfold it again.You can see central crease down the middle of sheet which will be vertical crease pointNow fold the left and right edges of sheet towards middle crease point.This gives you 2 flaps- After folding the 2 flaps to centre, just fold the paper horizontally and unfold it as shown in my image.This way we get horizontal crease point.-Fold the right flap outwards considering horizontal crease as mid point- Now fold the left flap outwards.This forms V shape where paper is opened away from the central crease.-Now reverse the paper so that V which was on top is now facing to bottom as shown in my image.- Now fold the bottom region with V to top.
