All accredited mods go to Modapkdone If you've been playing Among Us for a while then you might have realized that there aren't many variants to the game, it only has 3 maps and a number of tasks that are repeated every other game. If you are looking for a way to make your game interesting, then you should consider changing your elimination times to Among Us. This will help you flip the scale of power between companions and impostors that should allow you to have a little more fun. If you're not familiar with the cooling time of killing, let's take a quick look at it. Related: Between Us With 100 Players: Can I play? E What is Kill Cooling Time in Among Us? Kill cooldown is the time an impostor has to wait in the game before he can use the kill feature. The timer resets after each kill, forcing the impostor to wait to make the next next kill This gives equivalents enough time to discover the bodies and locate suspicious players around the map. Changing the cooldown time Kill can change your game dramatically. With Slow Kill cooldown times, Imposter will have to rely on strategies and sabotage to accomplish its task while, with faster cooldown times, they could be able to do more killings before a body is discovered. Related: How to play between us in Black and White Lento Kill Cooldown Times are ideal for casual and relaxing games where you're just trying to have fun with your friends. The games with faster Kill cooldown times involve a hectic gameplay that keeps everyone at the edge of their places. You'll always look out of the corner of your eyes for a body or an impediment to come and kill yourself. Doing tasks with the cooldown times of faster kills will introduce a certain sense of terror as the Imposter could come to take you at any time.
