I've been solid reading for months... no problems except if you've a second book to a story, I've no way to find this story and some books end on cliff hanger... also, puzzle game is totally rigged, so why bother?? It's extremely frustrating to read, read, read and read even more get 20 pieces a day in to have just 1 piece left at the reset day, I've done this twice now, I've collected every piece until I only needed 1 piece of each puzzle gift card left but I couldn't get even a $1 or $10 dollar gift card.I was reading like crazy, all the books I could, without issues, only an ad after most chapters; and I was totally addicted now I can't keep the app open so I'm guessing I'll have to delete it and redone load it which loses the reading and check in points also which I've soooooo many!!! If you can fix why the app keeps closing down on me, I'd keep it, as is, and either give the chance to win the puzzle game or just read the free books which are great without the game... I read and was already a valued customer before that stupid annoying and probably why it won't let me read anymore puzzle game came along! We take your feedback very seriously, and we are doing our best to resolve all existing issues. The now version will be released soon, so please wait a few days and update it. If that doesn't help, please contact us at novelnew.2020@gmail.com. WHY WRITE A REVIEW WHEN NOTHING EVER IMPROVES? People, don't bother with this. I wrote my review anyway as I'm forever an optimist.I enjoy some of these stories; they're easy reading and fun. HOWEVER (and that's obviously a big "however"), the constant ads are incredibly frustrating and annoying! I'm on the verge of deleting this app yet again! It also puts me several chapters behind when I get through the ads! Thus, to return to where I was in a story, I have to deal with the ads over and over! Is there a way to get rid of them? Also, is there a way to get the entire story downloaded instead of a few chapters? I read very quickly and this is becoming too aggravating to deal with! Well, I deleted this again; it's just too annoying to be interrupted constantly and I don't want to pay a buck a week to get rid of the ads, especially when I can't read how to STOP paying until AFTER I pay! Who'd buy something but not be told how to stop that purchase until after payment is made? That's simply bad business practice. If I chose to end the service, it might be hard to stop payment but we're not told anything about this until we pay! At least I cannot easily find this info and I certainly should be able to! It's too bad as this app has plenty of easy-to-read (albeit error-filled), fun stories! Fix these problems and I'll gladly try it again. I'm not holding my breath though. Thanks for your feedback. We are constantly adjusting our ad strategies and policies. If you want to cancel your subscription, you would need to tap the entry for Subscriptions at the Settings screen. Tap an active subscription you want to cancel, then tap Cancel Subscription. Please stay tuned for abetter Readict. I have had the app for about a month. I could sit and read books for hours without an issue. Now it won't load. Chapters don't save unless you hit the back button and continue. It won't even load the chapter menu for me to skip ahead. The app constantly freezes and I thought maybe it is the ads because my subscription ended so I resubscribe and it still just DOESNT WORK. I was legit reading a book or more a day and now I can barley read a couple chapters because it takes so long. Now my app will not even open. I'm just deleting it and calling quits because now it's nothing but problems. Might reinstall in a month to see if any of the problems are fixed because the updates you did ruined the app. Would of gave a one star but I do like the app when it actually decides to work. We are sorry for the inconvenience. We fixed this problem in the latest version of the app. This new version has been released, so please update it. Biography In 2001, Deborah Rodriguez went to Afghanistan as part of a group offering aid after the fall of the Taliban. Soon after arriving, she became involved in the set up of a beauty school training program to certify Afghan women to work in and set up their own beauty parlors to give them a chance at financial independence.[citation needed] She later opened a coffee shop in Kabul.[1] Rodriguez wrote two bestselling books based on her experiences in Afghanistan, The Little Coffee Shop of Kabul and Kabul Beauty School.[2][3][4] At one point, Kabul Beauty School was slated to become a movie, with Sandra Bullock playing the lead.[4] Some controversy followed the publishing of Kabul Beauty School. In the book, Rodriguez portrays herself as the founder and main force behind the success of the beauty school. However, other women who were also involved at the founding of the Kabul Beauty School say the book is filled with inaccuracies and inconsistencies, that events did not unfold the way Rodriguez depicts them, and that she exaggerated her role in the formation of the school. They say that she moved the school from the Ministry of Women's Affairs to the house she shared with her Afghan husband, and that she took over the school for personal gain.[5] Some of the women who worked at the beauty school said that, because of the publication of the book and the details it revealed about them, their lives had been put in danger. Some also claimed that Rodriguez had not made good on promises for financial support and other help.[4] However, Rodriguez claims that she was careful to protect the identities of the women mentioned in the book, and that they were all enthusiastic about telling their stories knowing that was the case.[6] In 2002, Rodriguez married an Afghan, Samer (Sam) Mohammad Abdul Khan, who works for Afghan warlord Abdul Rashid Dostum. She had known Khan for 20 days before the marriage, though they do not speak the same language, and he had a wife in Saudi Arabia with whom he retained a romantic relationship; his first wife became pregnant with his eighth child while he was married to Rodriguez. The marriage with Rodriguez was reported as a happy one as late as April 2007.[7] but soon after, she had to flee Afghanistan.[4] As of 2014, Rodriguez lives in Mazatlán, Mexico, where she is the owner of Tippy Toes Salon and Marrakesh Spa,[8] and where she has established Project Mariposa, providing funding for young women to attend beauty school, with the goal of helping them become independent and self-supporting.[8] Margarita Wednesdays (The House on Carnival Street), a new book detailing her journey to remake her life after being forced to leave Afghanistan, was released in June 2014.[8] Her latest book, Return to the Little Coffee Shop of Kabul, was released in March 2016.[9] Publications Non-fiction Kabul Beauty School: An American Woman Goes Behind the Veil (1 January 2007, Hodder: ISBN 9780340935880) Margarita Wednesdays: Making a New Life by the Mexican Sea (10 June 2014, Gallery Books: ISBN 9781476710679) (published as The House on Carnival Street in some countries) Fiction The Little Coffee Shop of Kabul (19 November 2012, Sphere: ISBN 978-0751550405) Return to the Little Coffee Shop of Kabul (28 March 2016, Sphere: ISBN 978-0751561463) The Zanzibar Wife (2018, Sphere: ISBN 978-0751561487) Island on the Edge of the World (5 November 2019, Sphere: ISBN 9780751574586) See also Afghanistan portal Biography portal Abdul Rashid Dostum Greg Mortenson Sarah Chayes Economic development International development Ministry of Women's Affairs (Afghanistan) Women in Afghanistan References ↑ Kerr, Euan (2014-01-20).
